

The Roots of Universe

The great grand architecture of the universe is much vaster than the universe itself. The whole universe is just in the “sight” of the Architecture. The whole cosmic dust which exists is an expression of thought of the architecture. I probably cannot conclude the gender of the creator, whether he or she, so let us call the unknown as “THAT” or “MASON”. Let’s first know who a mason is? One, who builds. Builds what? Which did not exist? Builds with what? With whatever he has. What did this MASON have? I do not know what exactly it was called by Mason but let’s call it as “Ether”. So why did he build “This”. To my knowledge, this Mason, as a process of evolution, wishes to evolve the space of (perfectness) which is already pure and perfect into completeness.

There are certain things that we all have to remember, like us there are many solar systems, planets and also other life supporting elements that exist in the universe. Let us expand our imagination as vast as the creator to know more about evolution. Firstly, let us know about “Field” the space within a radius or certain area in which, where the process of evolution takes place. For example the whole universe is within this Field. Now within this field there are innumerable spherical shaped structures know as “GLOBES”. A globe is a spherical structure which has magnetic affinity to itself and towards other giant structures, like stars or sun’s. Each Globe is in a different state. What does this state mean? State is a condition or the current status of a globe. Like for example water is in liquid state, rocks are in solid state. If not so same but mostly likewise, the state of the globe is determined by the position of elements or materials how finer or refined or purified they are. For example in our solar system Earth is the densest planet, ‘majorly’ made up of physical matter and also contains ‘minor’ substances of finer elements. For our better understanding another ex. on earth we have Ice-water-and also its vapours. Which is the finer state of H₂O? Certainly, it is water vapour as it can fuse with any element or material. Now secondly we have to understand something which is very important word called “Counter parts”.

All globes are constituted of counterparts. “Counter parts “are various grades of matter. Fine to finer, with which a globe is made up of. Counter parts can be imagined as shadows of an object. These counterparts do not occupy any special space just like physical globe, as we all know that they are finer in state, they intermingle with each other. For ex. let’s see a human body. We have a physical, astral, mental, causal, Buddic, Atmic bodies. They all are bodies but just intermingle together within or just out of the physical body. In the same way earth as a globe has its own counterparts. Now let us see the levels of matter as they go fine to finer. Physical-Emotional-Lower Mind-Higher

Mind-Intuitional-Spiritual-Monadic-Divine or Sthula-Kama-Lower Manas-Higher Manas-Buddhi-Atma-Anupadaka-Adi. Each and every globe has all the finer elemental matter and also fine elemental matter. For example all Physical globes contain all the seven counterparts where as an Intuitional globe will always posses only Atmic, Monadic and Adi matter only.

Harish Saxena Karnati, USA